

STIDHAMS* IN THE NEWS

Three Remarkable SEC Stidhams*

Well, if you live in the South and follow football, you know what it means!: Southeastern Conference football, and yes, other college athletics as well, but the gridiron game is the most passionately followed by its devoted fans.

Several months ago, A.P. [4943] Steadham, emailed asking if I knew whether or not the current Auburn football quarterback sensation, Jarrett Stidham, was a descendant of Timen Stiddem. I said I didn't know, but would look into it.

Due to the fact that Jarrett had been a Stephenville, Texas high school phenom, it was easy to Google search reports of his quarterbacking prowess during his high school years with one report of his father, Juder Stidham, commenting on his son's accomplishments to the local press.

From there it was easy to find Juder Stidham's ancestors in the Stidham* Family Tree and pinpoint their location in Corbin, Kentucky, and ultimately, connect the dots.

For a while, Jarrett [9431] Stidham was in news for being a possible Heisman Trophy candidate for 2017, but with Auburn's loss to Clemson in only their second game of the season, that possibility became a longshot at best.

A.P. also let it be known that his cousin's daughter, Brooklyn Madison Holt, was a Miss Alabama contestant (finishing fourth runner-up for 2017) and the current reigning Miss Auburn, she's a majorette in the Auburn University Marching Band and is employed by the university as a Supplemental Instructor (SI) for Precalculus. She's in the Honors College, an ambassador for the Honors College, and ambassador for the College of Liberal Arts, and a member of Lambda Sigma Honor Society (Top 50 Sophomores). Also, a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

A.P. is well known in SEC sports broadcasting. Now in his second
